Northstar Learning: Support Policy

Northstar Learning is a fictional online course provider. This document is a sample policy for practicing PDF loading, chunking, metadata capture, and retrieval. The dates, amounts, and contact details below are invented for this exercise.

Support hours and response times

The support desk is open Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Pacific time. New tickets receive an automatic confirmation immediately. A human specialist aims to respond to general questions within two business days. Payment access problems are prioritized for a response within one business day. Weekends and statutory holidays are excluded from these response targets.

Course access

Students can open a purchased course for 12 months from the purchase date. If access disappears unexpectedly, the student should provide the course title, the email address used at checkout, and the purchase receipt number. Support verifies the purchase before changing account access. Course access may be restored without changing the original expiry date when the problem resulted from a sign-in error.

Refund window

A student may request a refund within 14 calendar days of purchase if less than 20 percent of the course lessons have been completed. Refund requests must include the receipt number and the course title. The support team reviews eligibility, then sends approved refunds through the original payment method. Refunds may take five to ten business days to appear after approval, depending on the payment provider.

Exceptions

A duplicate charge is reviewed even when the standard 14-day refund window has passed. A student who purchased the wrong course may request an exchange within 30 calendar days if the replacement course has the same price. Support may escalate a request involving a technical outage that prevented access for more than 48 hours. Escalation does not automatically guarantee a refund; a specialist documents the decision.

Changing account details

Students can change their display name in account settings. To change the account email, support first confirms ownership using an existing verified contact method. Staff should not ask customers to send full card numbers, passwords, or one-time verification codes in a ticket. A request to delete an account should be routed to the privacy team after identity verification.

Example retrieval questions

What are the support hours? How long does a normal response take? What is the refund eligibility window? How many business days can an approved refund take? What information should a student provide when course access disappears? These questions should retrieve different sections of this PDF rather than the technology guide.

Practice note: When answering from this document, cite the policy section and remember that every organization and number here is fictional.